TURKISH WAR MINIS-

TER ASSASSINATED

Constantinople, Jan. 23.—Nazim Pasha, the former war minister and commander of the Turkish army, was shot dead during demonstrations here tonight.

Enver Bey and Talaat Bey had given explicit orders that no blood should be shed, but Nazim Pasha's aide-de-camp fired from a window of the Porte at Enver Bey and his companion and they returned the fire.

Their bullets killed Nazim Pasha. In spite of this tragedy there was no disturbance elsewhere.

COLD TABLETS

Are the best thing in the world to break up a cold. They have the advantage of similar preparations because they are made for one specific purpose—that of curing colds. They strike at the root of the trouble, equalizing blood conditions, and opening the pores so that the body can breathe and purify itself once more.

Rexall Cold Tablets positively cure colds, grippe and catarrh. They also prevent diphtheria, pneumonia and bronchial troubles. You should never be without them.

DURANT WILL VOTE

ON WATERWORKS BONDS

Durant, Ok., Jan. 24.—At a special election to be held March 18 the Durant voters will be asked to authorize the issuance of bonds to the amount of $81,831.60 to provide funds for the extension of the sewer and water systems to practically all parts of the city.

According to the engineer's estimates the following sums are needed: Sewer extensions on the north side—$18,370.90, sewer extensions on the south and east sides $35,335.70, water extensions $6,225, for sewage disposal plant $18,500, for incineration plant $3,000, cost of land for incineration and sewage disposal plants (estimated) $400.

The council will also ask that bonds be voted for the installation of an electric pump at the city pumping station at Armstrong. The municipal light plant in the city will furnish the power. The pumping plant is now operated by steam and it is estimated that a saving of about $300 per month can be effected by the proposed change.

BUILDINGS COLLAPSE

MANY KILLED AND INJURED AT MCKINNEY, TEXAS, WHEN BUILDINGS FALL.

McKinney, Tex., Jan. 23.—Two of this city's largest brick buildings collapsed about 4 o'clock this afternoon, burying women, children and men shoppers, estimated to number 20 to 50. Fire swept the ruins for an hour, suffocating and burning living victims as they cried for help. Over six hours after the collapse the twenty dead and injured had been removed from the wreckage.

All hope of recovering any more victims alive was abandoned at 10:30. Until the ruins are completely cleared from the fatal spot, the exact loss of life cannot be ascertained, but it is stated by Mayor Finch that it cannot fall to be over thirty-five.

The collapsed structures were the three-story Odd Fellows' building, occupied by the department store of Cheeves Brothers, and the adjoining two-story implement store of T. J. Tingle.

The dry goods store stood on the northeast corner of the public square the other adjoining. The collapse of a wall in the implement house threw its weight of heavy implements against the corner building and with a noise that jarred the town to its foundations both sank into ruins.

The dead: Rosa Welch Miss Katie Miligan, Miss Bessie Wade, Russell Height, 4 years old, N. R. Presley, clerk, Leslie Bush, Allen, Texas, Mrs. Mary Stiff, clerk, Miss Eva Searcy, clerk.

The last two died after being removed from the building.

The injured: Miss Annie Curtis, seriously; Mrs. Mort Shirley, seriously; Mrs. Jennie Barnett, seriously; John Thomas, Vernie Graves, Mrs. Hugh Kistler, Annie Graves, Kistler, Mrs. Belle McWilliams, clerk, Miss Lydia Moreland, Russell Height, Miss Lula Searcy, clerk, Miss Stella Russell. Two unidentified women.

A sale of white goods was on in the great three-story department store and men, women and children thronged its counters.

The implement store adjoining was doing a thriving business. The streets were thronged.

At the harsh cracking of timbers clerks and customers alike broke for the streets. Pressed outward by the weight of the heavy implements of the stock, the wall of the implement store swayed, sagged and burst through into the department store, and in an instant hundreds of tons of merchandise and wrecked and shattered building material reared into a tremendous heap of debris into the heart of the department store, piling thirty-five feet in the air, jagged timbers stuck from the mass.

After a moment of stunned inactivity, hundreds of rescuers pitched into the ruins. Scarcely had they mounted the heap when tongues of flames burst through it. From all over the city came workers, fire-fighters in hundreds. They were formed into relays by Mayor Finch. As one shift became exhausted another took its place. From the steaming ruin bricks were hurled aside, timbers torn out and cast into the streets, and crashed human forms lifted from the twisted wreckage and hurried to hospitals. The fire was extinguished in an hour, sometimes beating the volunteers to the victims who prayed for their rescuers to hurry. N. R. Presley, a clerk, was one of them. In interrupted gasps he told the firemen that he was waiting on Leslie Bush of Allen, Tex., capitalist, when the crash came.

I'm burning. My right foot is burning off."

A few minutes later when the rescuers reached him Presley was dead. His right foot was burned nearly off. He died in a few minutes.

The body of Bush was recovered about 10 o'clock, making the known dead eight.

As darkness fell strings of electric lights were strung across the ruins. Assistance came quickly from nearby towns and from all parts of the state came offers of aid. Scores of men crawled through the guard ropes time after time to beg to assist in the rescue work.

The rescuers worked in shifts, many being ordered to their beds to sleep until midnight. In spite of the immense crowds which were swelled by farmers from miles about, the scene was almost silent.

Men talked in whispers. At the temporary morgue, only those looking for bodies were admitted.

The whole town appeared crushed. Men who had narrowly escaped from death spoke briefly. "There is nothing to tell," they said.

Vernie Graves, the first to escape, and who is probably the least injured, said he heard the wall crack, looked and saw it falling. A moment later he remembers that he plunged into the street filled with clouds of dust caused by the falling walls.

Mexicans May Supplant Negroes.

Callington, La., Jan. 24.—Plans to import farm laborers to take the place of indolent negroes will be discussed at a farmers' conference here tomorrow. Farmers from all over the parish are arriving for the meeting. Owing to the unusually high wages paid last year few negroes can be induced to work at the old rates of pay, but demand pay at the same rate as is paid in cotton-picking time. Many planters favor the importation of Mexican labor.

Lumber Hearing Resumed.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 24.—Hearing of the protest of Southern lumbermen against the proposed increase in freight rates on lumber from the South to Canadian points was resumed in this city today before a special examiner of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The Southern lumbermen contend that the increased rates will be an unfair discrimination in favor of the lumbermen of the Northwest, who will be enabled to place their product in the Canadian market cheaper than the lumbermen of the South.

At present Finley J. Shepard seems to be better known to the world as the husband of Miss Helen Gould than as a railroad magnate, but as he evidently has the right sort of material in his makeup, it is probable that he will sooner or later be known for his own true worth.

Banquet at Normal Results in Organization of Commercial Club—A Royal Entertainment.

Thursday evening something more than 100 business men of Ada gathered around the banquet board at the normal and after a delightful repast, had been partaken of, took an important step by organizing a commercial club with 68 members. A soliciting committee was appointed to add other names to the roll, and will report at the next meeting to be held next Thursday evening.

About 200 invitations had been issued to the banquet which was given by R. E. Blanks and President Briles, and every class of business was represented at the gathering. A feature of the entertainment was the music furnished by the normal orchestra and the Pentem quartet, both of which organizations deserve special credit.

At the head of the middle table sat Judge Tom D. McKeown, who acted as toastmaster and kept the house in a roar with his Irish wit and humor.

The first speaker on the program was President Briles whose subject was "As Others See Us." His discussion dealt mostly with educational phases of the day and in this he drew a comparison of the rank of Oklahoma and other states, which proved that, although Oklahoma has made remarkable strides in educational matters, much still remains to be done before it will be in the first rank.

R. E. Haynes was the second speaker and his story based on his subject "I'll Take a Little of the Same," created a hearty laugh and made one of the hits of the evening.

"Give Us This Day Our Daily Bread," was the subject of a short address by Rev. M. B. Molloy, who asm displayed in those days by those who aided in making Ada the city it is today. He also took occasion to pay a fine compliment to Tom Hope, who was unavoidably detained from the meeting, whom he said had always been one of the mainstays to the club and in the forefront of every battle for the advancement of Ada. He now urged a revival of the old time spirit.

J. F. McKeel was called for and made a short impromptu talk on the work in the legislature. He declared that with Crawford and Roddie in the legislature, the Ada normal is in no danger lies in another initiated bill. He spoke highly of a bill introduced by Senator Roddie so amending the initiative that hereafter all such bills must be kept in custody of the county clerk and the signers must go there instead of having the petitions circulated as at present. This will make it more difficult for politicians with an axe to grind to get an election on their hobbies. Mr. McKeel suggested that every citizen of Ada write both Roddie and Crawford an endorsement of the plan. Judge Barney made a few remarks about the desirability of recalling some of the incompetent state officials if it were possible, or at least check them by judicious use of the referendum.

The next move was the organization of the commercial club.

W. C. Duncan placed W. S. Morrison in nomination for the presidency of the organization and he was elected by acclamation.

R. W. Simpson, R. E. Blanks and W. C. Duncan were appointed to act in conjunction with the president to select an executive committee. A little later it named the following, who with the president and secretary, will be the directors: R. W. Simpson, S. M. Shaw, L. A. Ellison, A. G. Adams and E. M. Chilcutt.

A committee to solicit new members was appointed consisting of Ed Gwin, R. E. Blanks and W. J. Coffman. On motion of Mr. Briles the dues of the club were fixed at $1.00 per month and all who could possibly do so took the position that while no one wants any charity at the hands of others, he does want their co-operation in a business way and it is only this co-operation that makes a town a place worth while.

Max Brents, the youngest speaker of the occasion, was next called to discuss the subject: "Rooters." Young Mr. Brents has always been an enthusiastic rooter for the normal in everything that has come up, and his subject was one familiar to him. He was of the opinion that the older men should now begin a campaign of rooting for Ada. This was probably his first appearance as an after dinner speaker, but Max made a speech that was a credit to him.

G. T. Rails of Coalgate followed with a stirring address on the subject: "A Neighbor's Observation and Experience." His remarks gave a good clue to the real object of the banquet—to organize a commercial club, very few knowing why they were invited out—and he related some interesting experiences of his own at Coalgate. Among other things he stated that the present strong organization created for the purpose of advertising the country in connection with the sale of the segregated lands of the Choctaw and Chickasaw nations, began with three members, himself and two others. He dwelt a few minutes on the advertising this sale will bring to Eastern Oklahoma, and invited Ada to take advantage of the occasion to advertise this section and endeavor to capture a part of the immigration that will surely follow this sale. He also mentioned the fact that he is a member of the provisional board appointed by the synod of the Southern Presbyterian church to report on a location for a boys' college, and suggested that perhaps Ada might want to make an effort to land it.

"A Basket of Chips," was the subject assigned W. C. Duncan. He spoke of the early days of commercial organizations of Ada and the enthusi-were urged to pay in advance for a year.

M. C. Wilson was unanimously elected vice president, and the selection of secretary passed up to the president.

On motion of W. S. Creveling, R. W. Simpson, R. E. Blanks and W. C. Duncan will compose the finance committee.

A motion offered by I. Wymore to extend the thanks of the guests to Miss Ruble and her assistants, to the musicians and to the hosts of the evening carried with a whoop.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the city hall Thursday evening.

The highest point of woman's happiness is reached only through motherhood, in the clasping of her child within her arms. Yet the mother-to-be is often fearful of nature's ordeal and shrinks from the suffering incident to its consummation. But for nature's ills and discomforts nature provides remedies, and in Mother's Friend is to be found a medicine of great value to every expectant mother. It is an emulsion for external application, composed of ingredients which act with beneficial and soothing effect on those portions of the system involved. It is intended to prepare the system for the crisis, and thus relieve, in great part, the suffering through which the mother usually passes. The regular use of Mother's Friend will repay any mother in the comfort it affords before, and the helpful restoration to health and strength it brings about after baby comes. Mother's Friend is for sale at drug stores. Write for our free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature.

BUYERS OF UNALLOTTED LANDS GRANTED EXTENSION

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—Secretary Fisher of the department of interior, Thursday notified J. George Wright, commissioner to the five tribes, to extend the payments to all those persons who purchased Choctaw and Chickasaw lands during the year 1911. Each of the deferred payments on the land will be extended one year.

Many of those who purchased lands previous to 1911 have again appealed to the department for extension of payments but Secretary Fisher has decided that the department shall grant no further relief in such cases except where buying can show an extreme need of such action. The droughts of the past several years have made it impossible for many of the buyers to meet their original contract hence the leniency on the part of the government in the matter.

The regular examination for teachers' certificates will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week.

Verdict of Acquittal for Epting.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 23.—"Not guilty," was the verdict of the jury which tried Beach Epting on the charge of being implicated with J. Beal Sneed in the killing of Al Boyce, at Amarillo, last fall. The jury took the case last night, but did not consider it until this morning, when they quickly reached an agreement.

When the jury returned their finding, Mrs. Epting kissed her husband, and he fondly clasped her hands. There were none of the Boyces in court at the time.

Mrs. Neathery's Luncheon.

"Eat, drink, be merry,
Seize the present hour,
Deem not the future
Holds a fairer flower."

The memory of the luncheon given by Mrs. Will Neathery Tuesday will long linger with those present as one of the most delightful social functions of the season.

Mrs. Tom Hope in her usual gracious manner received the guests in the reception room, and in the library they were presented to the charming hostess and her guests of honor, Mrs. E. S. Haraway, Mrs. Farley of Tennessee, Mrs. H. S. Cooper, Mrs. H. P. Reich, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Ricketts of Texas.

The radiance of the cordial hospitality that is ever present when Mrs. Neathery entertains was warmly felt as each guest met others of the receiving line, Mrs. Frank Madox and Mrs. J. W. Bolen seated the guests in the large living room where a few moments were pleasantly spent before the luncheon hour. Carnations, the "divine flowers" were used for decoration. The color scheme was carried out in the beautiful centerpiece of carnations, the candles and softly shaded lights that decorated the tables.

The hostess, gowned in a blue charmeuse with silver and coral trimmings, presided over the matrons' table. Mrs. Haraway in her exquisite wedding gown, presided over the brides' table. Covers were laid for twenty-eight.

The delicious six-course luncheon was served a la russe, consisting of the following:

Grape Fruit
Hot beaten biscuit Cream fish
Turkey, cranberry sauce
Dressing Patties Hot rolls
Cream peas and Mushrooms
Cream potatoes Fruit
Salad Cheese straws
'Sobert Ice cream Cake
Iced tea Black coffee

Cigarettes
Then indeed the quotation "woman" she needs no eulogy, she speaks for herself—was in evidence as the clever joke the hostess played on her guests was discovered. The cigarettes proved to be chocolate sticks given as favors.

How to make a Chicken Have Long Legs.

In the current issue of Farm and Fireside appears an interesting article on the training of champion chickens. Following is an extract:

"Of course, with costly prize fowls every care and attention must be bestowed upon them. Once a 'topper' goes amiss, it means a loss of many, many dollars, especially if in the middle of the hatching season. The number of shows held yearly the world over makes the general exhibitor's life very interesting. The judge will seldom stop to even look at a bird if wild in the pen. The bird will not then allow herself to be handled or even show off her 'points.' The exhibitor has, therefore, to put his birds into training-quarters about two weeks before the show. The bird is caged up in an ordinary wire pen, as used at the shows, especially fed with choice tidbits and stroked with the hand and a judicious stick or twig, till quite tame.

"Lined is given to put a gloss on the plumage. The bird is then occasionally handled, preferably at night, when such live stock seem somewhat stupefied. The owner must pass the stick up the breast and throat, causing the bird to hold its head up. In the case of birds requiring length of limb, tidbits are held up high and the bird made to stretch for them.

"Fancier friends are called in to discuss aloud the qualities of the bird and walk around the pen to get the exhibit accustomed to noises encountered at the shows. Strict attention is paid to cleanliness. Dark-colored birds are ideal for novices, as they require but little preparation after training. Gently pass a large silk handkerchief slightly dampened over the bird, in the same direction as the feathers grow, to remove all surface dirt from the plumage. Wrap a soft towel around the bird's back, and hold its legs in warm water; then gently scrub the legs with a nail-brush and a good lathering soap. Wash the face, comb and wattles, and apply a little vaseline or olive-oil to render the head-points a brilliant red, which denotes perfect condition."

Mexican Citrus Fruit Growers.

Tampico, Jan. 24.—The organization of a permanent association of citrus fruit growers of Mexico is the purpose of a three days' conference which will begin here tomorrow. Many of the leading fruit growers of the Tampico territory have already arrived to attend the meeting. The proposed association, according to the statements of its promoters, will take steps to eradicate all scales and disease affecting trees and fruit and try to prevent the United States from enacting a law prohibiting the importation of Mexican fruit and trees since the increased acreage here will in a few years produce more fruit than the home market can consume, and foreign markets will be essential.

AN ALLEGORY IN STONE

EAST PORTICO OF HOUSE TO BE SET WITH STATUES.

Pediment on That Part of the Capitol Building Will Be Ornamented With a Group by a Famous Sculptor—Work Almost Completed.

The pediment on the east portico of the house of representatives is blank, but soon it may be set with statues. The sculptor's chisel is to write an allegory there. This pediment, or classic triangle, that rests on the fluted columns has never had statue-tenants, though the corresponding space on the senate side of the capitol has sheltered a crowd of statues since 1862, for in that year white effigies were hoisted to the pediment and secured by copper clamps.

And they have posed there ever since. The award for the statue-group for the house pediment was made to the sculptor, Paul W. Bartlett, of Paris and Washington, and reports received at the office of the superintendent of the capitol show that steady progress is being made. The announcement may come at any time that the statues for the house pediment have been completed.

The Sixtieth congress, at its first session, passed this act: "That the expenditure of $75,000, or as much thereof as may be necessary, be and the same is hereby authorized for the purpose of completing the pediment of the house wing of the capitol by placing suitable statuary thereon, said expenditure to be made under the direction of the speaker of the house, the joint committee on the library and the superintendent of the capitol."

The report on the bill contained this: "The senate pediment was decorated in 1862 by appropriate groups of allegorical statuary, and it was intended at that time to place on the corresponding pediment above the east portico of the house of representatives a similar group representative of our history and life; but this intention has never been carried out. The work provided for by this bill is necessary to the completion and beauty of the capitol building."

The subject illustrated in the senate pediment is "The Progress of American Civilization." Naturally the decline of the American Indian is also illustrated. The central figure is America. On her right are a soldier, a merchant, a youth, a schoolmaster, pupil and a mechanic; also an anchor, symbolizing stability, and a sheaf of wheat typifying prosperity. On the left of America are a pioneer, a hunter, an Indian brave, Indian squaw, a papoose and an Indian grave.

The man who designed this group was Crawford, the American sculptor, and he received $20,000 for his work. Casoni, an Italian sculptor, carved the figure of America and the Indian family, receiving $7,000; G. Butti Gagliardi chiseled the sheaf of wheat, anchor, group of instruction and youth, for $5,500; D. Giampola did the figure of the mechanic for $1,900, and G. Caspera dug the Indian grave out of marble for $400.

MODIFY PLANS OF L'ENFANT

Want of Park Breathing Places Seen in Newer Parts of the Capital.

It is perhaps not generally realized that during the past decade or so another Washington has come into existence in the sense that the original area of the city has been about doubled. The sweep of L'Enfant's plan, which a century and a quarter ago, seemed so visionary and pretentious, has been found to be too cramped for the nation's capital, and now the built-up streets of the city extend from the White House almost twice as far in some directions as the original streets.

The L'Enfant plan has been extended over this area, but modified by subdivisions principally along the northern border of the city, which were in existence at the time when the Washington city plan was made to apply to the entire district. There was another modifying influence, and that was the lack of principal points connected by great transverse avenues; in consequence the open spaces where the avenues cut into the rectangular system of streets are not as numerous in the plan of the newer Washington as is the case with the older part of the city.

These spaces are the parks of the city, the breathing places where the little children go, and the want of them is felt in the newer sections, and in consequence the district commissioners are asking congress for the money to extend what is called the smaller park system to the region beyond the original limits of the city.

Many Cats Slain.
"Worthless" cats to the number of 2,767 were asphyxiated by charcoal gas at the city pound between July 1 and October 5, according to the tally kept by the health department. The number is said to break all previous records of the department. During the same period 1,050 dogs were incarcerated in the pound. Many were released to owners.
